A UTAH MINING CENTER.

Silver Reef as described by a correspondent of the Salt Lake Tribune, is the most pleasantly situated and neatest mining camp in all Utah. Built upon a sloping ridge of porphyry, it overlooks the country to the south and south-east. The ridge on which the place stands is seamed by several small gulches down which flow living streams of mountain water. The main street, which is about 100 feet wide, has a natural pavement, and runs north and south along the centre of the ridge, is always kept clean and clear by a man employed by the citizens for that purpose. This street is built up quite solidly on either side, the buildings being of stone, brick and timber and of such substantial character as to do great credit to so young a town. Back from the business street near the water courses are the residences, many of which are neat, home-like cottages; there are also few dwellings on the north part of the ridge where cottonwood trees fringe the streams. On the whole, Silver Reef is destined to become a very pretty town. Its inhabitants are said to be made up about equally of miners and others from Nevada, and of Gentile, Utah, people, and all have a pride of their town as a solidly established camp, with no room for tramps or idle men.

HERE is a shoe shop, remarks Bob Ingessoll in one of his speeches. One man in the shop is always busily at work during the day—always industrious. In the evening he goes courting a good, nice girl. There are five other men in the shop who don't do any such thing. They spend half their working hours in loafing and their evenings in dissipation. This first young man by and by cuts out from these others and gets a shoe store of his own. Then he marries this girl. Soon he is able to take his wife out to ride of an evening. The five laborers, his former companions, who see him indulging in this luxury, retire to a neighboring saloon and pass a resolution that there is an eternal struggle between labor and capital.

A CHINAMAN was on Tuesday naturalized in the New York Court of Common Pleas, and thus he is made a citizen of the United States and as such is entitled to all the rights and privileges of a citizen wherever the flag flies. This is a rare occurrence, but in South Carolina, Massachusetts, New York, and we think in Pennsylvania also, Chinamen have before this been naturalized. The California Courts have decided that Chinamen are not capable of being naturalized under the laws of the United States, but the Courts of the other States do not seem to agree with our Courts on this issue.

The Eastern press give such as Beecher and Key, who come here in their own private interests for a few days, credit for understanding the complex Chinese question better than those who have studied it faithfully for a quarter of a century.

A NEW DEPARTURE.

The expressions of satisfaction over Judge Gresham's instructions to an Indianapolis grand jury the other day, and the warm commendations bestowed on the Judge, may appear out of all proportion to the circumstances calling them out. But to those familiar with the prevalent disposition of not a few officials to shut their eyes to the abuse of position by their superiors, least by protesting they damage their own prospects, the independence shown by Gresham will be hailed as a sign of health, boding good to the body politic. It is especially gratifying coming from a source so intimately related to our machinery for the administration of equal and exact justice to all men, irrespective of social or political standing. The matter may be briefly summarized as follows: The grand jury was investigating a charge of embezzlement of the funds of an Indianapolis national bank with a view to the indictment of the alleged criminal if the evidence seemed to warrant such a finding. The jury was informed by the District Attorney that the President of the United States had instructed him to have all proceeding looking to the precaution of the offender quashed. The jury through its foreman asked instructions of Judge Gresham of the U. S. Court. He was instructed that the President could interfere, even in advance of finding an indictment, by an exercise of the pardoning power; but that he had no more power than the Czar of Russia to control the action of the jury in any other way, and that if members believed it was an attempt to stifle investigation by an unavoidable exercise of influence, it should only act as an additional incentive to a fearless discharge of the duty devolving on them. The Judge took occasion to say, however, that he did not believe there was any purpose on the part of the President to use the high position to shield criminals and help them evade the penalty of violated laws. The matter has attracted a good deal of attention in legal circles, more perhaps because the fearlessness of the Judge was in such marked contrast to the course which had likely been pursued under similar circumstances by the average flunky official.

THE INDIAN PROBLEM.

EUROPEAN ASSASSINS.

Europe appears to be filled with the Internationalists, Nihilists, Communists, and levelers of various degrees, whose first idea seems to be to break down all Governments, as at present organized; and the first step in the proposed millennium of unrestrained licence, is to assassinate all the heads and leaders of the present Governments. While professing principles, their acts prove they have none which honest and intelligent men can tolerate. The San Francisco Alta says they have tried attempts to assassinate the Emperors of Russia, Germany and the Queen of England, the Emperor of France, the King of Spain and Italy, and, more recently, the Hungarian Premier and his guest, Count Andrassy; and they succeeded, in some instances, as in Russia, in assassinating a General at the head of the Police.

CATARRH

THE EYE, EAR and THROAT

Successfully Treated with

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE.

SUCCESS is the test of merit, and success to the treatment of CATARRH, after so many miserable failures, is the most valuable specific curative properties in the remedy need. Dr. SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE for CATARRH possesses such properties? The evidence, in the shape of unselected testimonial from the most respectable people in the country, is in my judgment, conclusive of this point. Never before, in the history of popular medicines has such valuable testimony been offered, freely offered, in favor of any remedy than that in the possession of the proprietors of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE. And, what constitutes it does not consist of any secret, or mysterious, or unknown ingredients, but of common, well-known, and well-ascertained substances, which are easily obtained by friends or friends in their vicinity. It consists of weighty nutrimental parts, all correctly calculated to admit of rapidity over and over again, known to the regular medical profession, and signs of recovery are manifested in a marked and decided manner, and the patient is enabled to return to his usual pursuits in a short time.

The following unselected testimonial from HENRY WELLS, of Wells, Fargo & Co.,

is one of the best proofs of the value of this
